

The Wisconsin No-Call list should be left as it is. I do not want to be called by anyone soliciting business for any reason. If I wish to know more about a company, I will contact them and find out. I do not want my privacy invaded so that a company may make more money by catching someone who is unaware of a sales pitch they make and end up being stuck with something that they do not want or services they do not need. The junk mail you get is more than sufficient for these companies to advertise their "products".
